She has been staying at the home of her son, a boy named Edward, who is a cook in a restaurant, and she will be glad to get a meal to-morrow.

The Lamperts' son says that Mrs. Lampert intended to sleep in the streets, but the police and the citizens of Elizabethport gathered upon the steps of the City Hall, and the mayor was so moved by the scene that he sent a message to the police to let them know where to find the poor woman.

WHAT IS THE NEXT MOVE?

Peckham's Rejection Starts the Lawyers Guessing.

What President Cleveland's next move will be now that the Senate has rejected both of his New York appointments, William H. Harboher and Wheeler H. Peckham, to the United States Supreme Court, is a question that is now being discussed with great interest by the legal profession of this city.

Justice Sayre, who has had the record of the Commissioners before him, has constituted himself as a committee to advise the Senate on the appointment.

He said that the report and his opinion are now in the hands of the Commission. The report contained 2,695 pages of type-written matter. It was signed by the entire commission.

Justice Sayre said that it would be impossible for him to have read all the testimony given between the time the work of the Commission was ended and the filing of the report.

It is noted that an investigation will be made to ascertain what reason the Commissioners had for making such a small award.
